50,000,000 LIRE VALUE IN AMERICAN DOLLARS AND CENTS

B. L. Lagerquist, assistant cashier of the First National bank of Brainerd and manager of the foreign exchange department, has kindly estimated, at the request of the Brainerd Dispatch, the present value of 50,000,000 lire, the indemnity demanded from Greece by Italy.

At present rate of exchange, the indemnity comes to $2,195,000.

(By United Press) Athens, Aug. 31.—The Greek reply to the Italian 24-hour ultimatum rejects the demands for an indemnity of 50,000,000 lire and accepts four other of the demands with reservations. The fifth, sixth and seventh clauses are rejected.

The demands and replies to each are substantially as follows:

1. Italy asked for abject apologies, to be presented through the Athens legation. Greece accepts, offering an official expression of sorrow by the chief of the Athens garrison to the Italian minister.
2. Italy demanded that members of the Greek government attend a solemn mass for the victims at the Athens cathedral. Greece accepts, saying that members of the cabinet will attend such a mass.
3. Italy announced the Greek fleet must hoist the Italian colors and salute the Italian fleet in the harbor of Piraeus, the port of Athens. Greece offers to have a detachment of the Athens garrison salute the Italian fleet in front of that country's legation the day of the funeral.
4. The ultimatum asked that military honors be accorded the bodies of the victims as they are carried aboard the warships to be taken home. Greece agrees to this, specifying that military authorities of Preveza and Epirus participate in the ceremony.
5. The fifth, sixth and seventh demands, which included Italian participation in the inquiry to be conducted at the scene of the massacre, capital punishment for the offenders and an indemnity of 50,000,000 lire are rejected on the ground that they are incompatible with Greek honor and sovereignty.

GREEK REPLY IS CLAIMED UNSATISFACTORY

Rome, Aug. 31.—The Greek reply to the Italian ultimatum is absolutely unsatisfactory, the Messagero stated today.

This newspaper added that it learns reliably that the Greek answer is unacceptable because the note refuses to pay the 50,000,000 lire indemnity which was demanded and asks modification of the demands with regard to saluting the Italian fleet and offering tribute to the bodies of the slain.

Rome, Aug. 31.—Direct action by the Italian government is now awaited, following receipt of the Greek reply to Premier Mussolini's ultimatum, which is entirely unsatisfactory.

General Diaz and Admiral Di Revel also reported to the cabinet on military and naval affairs. Diaz as head of the army and Admiral Di Revel as head of the naval board.

The cabinet gave unanimous support to Mussolini's plans.

Mussolini informed the cabinet flatly that the Greek reply was unacceptable. This was followed by the appearance of General Diaz and the head of the admiralty board, and the cabinet was informed of measures to be taken against Greece.

INDICATIONS POINT TO SUSPENSION OF HARD COAL MINING

UNION AND OPERATORS' REPRESENTATIVES DON'T RELISH PINCHOT PROPOSAL

STRIKE IS EFFECTIVE MIDNIGHT IF DIFFERENCES ARE NOT COMPOSED

(By United Press) Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 31.—All indications here today pointed to suspension of the anthracite industry at midnight tonight.

Both union and operators' representatives are understood to have composed their answers to Governor Pinchot's settlement plan. This has delayed matters until it may be impossible to stop men from quitting their jobs.

With neither side wishing to reject the plan flatly, both are dissatisfied with certain portions of it which they believe need clarification and revision.

The only possibility of avoiding an immediate suspension now seems to lie in the hope that Governor Pinchot may obtain from the contending parties a promise for a truce.

The conference today did not begin until noon, and the strike is effective at midnight.

Miners May Accept Provisionally

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 31.—The miners reported to Governor Pinchot today they would accept provisionally his plan for the settlement of the impending anthracite strike.

"We feel," said the miners in a statement, "that your action has paved the way to a real beginning for a joint wage negotiation between anthracite operators and representatives of mine workers."

"Such a conference could take your suggestions for a new contract as a basis, and by diligent work could probably make substantial progress in working out a new agreement."

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 31.—"We accordingly advise your excellency that representatives of the mine workers hold themselves in readiness to enter into joint conferences at any time such a meeting can be arranged."

The miners accepted the proposal for a 10 per cent wage increase, as a step in the right direction, accepted the 8-hour day, accepted the provisions of collective bargaining, but expressed regret that the governor did not include the checkoff in his recommendations.

The union leaders told the governor that a council of arbitration would not be acceptable to them as a means of working out an agreement.

They said this might be implied whether or not it was intended.

"We believe that such an expression is in conflict with the principles enunciated in your fourth recommendation, which grants complete recognition of collective bargaining," the union said.

Provisional Acceptance by Union

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 31.—The union provisionally accepted the peace plan with reservations today, while the operators presented a qualified rejection.

The operators left no way open for continued negotiations. They said they would accept the principle of the 8-hour day, even though it would increase the cost of domestic coal 5 cents a ton. Further, the operators insisted, they had already given the union recognition insofar as they understood the terms. They also said collective bargaining as they understood it was already in force. They declared themselves still opposed to the 10 per cent wage increase proposal. On this they said:

"We are still firmly of the opinion that no general increase in wages is justified at this time. Present

AMERICA AND MEXICO RESUME DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS TODAY

(By United Press) Washington, Aug. 31.—The American and Mexican governments will announce today the resumption of diplomatic relations between them.

This will be done through issuance at noon in Washington and Mexico City of an identical note. The note will announce that the two governments have "decided" to resume diplomatic relations.

In this manner American recognition of the Obregon government of Mexico will be announced to the world.

Washington, Aug. 31.—The State Department today announced resumption of diplomatic relations with Mexico.

An announcement which was to all intents and purposes a recognition of the Obregon government was made in the form of a brief statement given out at noon.

It follows: The acting secretary of state at 12 noon August 31, 1923, made the following announcement:

"The government of the United States and the government of Mexico, in view of reports and recommendations of their respective commissioners submitted as a result of the American-Mexican conference held at Mexico City from May 14, 1923 to August 15, 1923, it has been resolved to renew diplomatic relations between them, and there, pending the appointment of ambassadors, they are taking the necessary steps to formally empower their present charges d'affaires."

The union told the governor they believed the checkoff should be included in the arrangement as a step in the right direction.

Union officials informed the governor that in some parts of his suggestion it might be implied that he was in favor of arbitration.

The union could not accept arbitration, they said, asking that he explain more fully his position on this point.

The two sides in answering Governor Pinchot's plan said they assumed there would be no further negotiations after their answers have been concluded, although the operators did not state what position they would take in order to enter further negotiations.

The operators' statement concluded:

"In making this response to your suggestion, we do so knowing some of the demands of the miners presented at the Atlantic City conference and not heretofore agreed upon shall be deemed abandoned."

This was taken to relate to minor demands in the eleven points which union leaders have insisted upon.

In accepting the principle of the 8-hour day, the operators' statement said it would add $2,225,000 to their annual expenses. This must add 5 cents to the cost per ton at the mines of domestic coal.

MAYOR NELSON OF ST. PAUL ADDRESSES THE COUNTY FAIR

LARGE CROWD HEARS HIM EXPOUND FARM PROBLEMS AT PEQUOT THURSDAY EVE

ST. PAUL EXECUTIVE IMPRESSED BY WONDERFUL PRODUCTS OF SOIL, ETC.

Thursday night the Crow Wing county fair at Pequot reached the high water mark in attendance and enthusiasm.

Brainerd people came in such a throng that the front gates were bulged in.

They marvelled at the products of the soil, the corn stalks which stretched from floor to roof of the agricultural building, plums as big as peaches, wide-eyed potatoes, grains and grasses; iron ore display from the Cuyuna iron range; the comprehensive marl exhibit from a dozen beds in the county; the Breezy Point Lodge summer resort exhibit of fish, game, wild animals, etc.; the Pequot consolidated school exhibit; Pelican Better Farming club display; Perry Hardware Co. of Brainerd Toyland and children's playground; ball game, Pequot, 7, Brainerd Shop Team, 4, with no casualties and the umpire surviving; the band music and racing program; the cattle exhibits; the flashing of the double header bill of fireworks, Vesuvius and Verdun locking arms and blasting their way into the empyreal spheres above.

With such a setting it takes some orator to hold the attention of the people and St. Paul's popular, aggressive, young mayor was equal to the task. His simple, unaffected style of delivery; his plain, honest convictions; his intense sympathy and good fellowship just permeated his talk to the home folks and he gained friends by the hundreds and applause of the most lavish kind.

Mayor Nelson's Address Mayor Arthur E. Nelson said in part:

"I have heard so much about Crow Wing county and its annual fair, and so much about the picturesque Cuyuna range and the people here, that when an opportunity came to meet you and see your country I gladly dropped everything to take advantage of it."

The city of St. Paul, which I have the honor at this time to represent, is your neighbor—and a good neighbor, I hope—interested in the same things, confronted by the same problems and aiming, I know, at identical ideals. Ramsey and Crow Wing counties were founded on the same faith among pioneers, and their histories are dotted by the same inspiring examples of courage, indomitable will and initiative.

We all believe in Minnesota—believe in it just as much as ever did our forefathers—and whether we labor in Crow Wing or Ramsey county is neither here nor there. Ahead of us is one goal, and though we may travel different routes, in spirit, at least, we are united, and as we travel we may with profit to both of us fight the battles of all because the greatest good to the greatest number is still the foundation of national happiness and prosperity."

And so I say to you in all sincerity that the people of St. Paul are intensely interested in finding a way out of the difficulties into which the farmers were plunged soon after the close of the war. I could not look you in the eye tonight if it were not so, because I believe the most patriotic thing we can do at this time is to apply ourselves to a study of those difficulties with a whole and an unselfish heart.

You will all recall what Mark Twain once said about the weather—"everybody is talking about it but no one seems to be doing anything." As I travel about I am impressed by the fact that everybody is talking about the farmer's problems, and if no one seems to be doing anything it is because the way has not yet been revealed. But I ask you to take comfort from the knowledge that the American people have never yet applied themselves to the solution of any problem that was not correctly and permanently solved. And so it is going to be with the farmer's problem. It will be solved—correctly and permanently, and, I pray, promptly.

I do not flatter myself that I have

BELIEF THAT RED IS BULL-TEASING COLOR FOUND TO BE FALLACY

Berkeley, Calif., Aug. 31.—The old idea that the color red has the effect of producing anger in a bull is a fallacy, according to Dr. G. M. Stratton, of the University of California, after six months of experimenting in which he and his assistants waved flags of all colors before bulls, cows and calves.

Dr. Stratton announced that he found the animals interested rather in the motion of the object presented to them than its color and declared that once their curiosity in this respect had been appeased, they paid no more attention to the flag regardless of its color.

BRAINERD BOY HELD FOR THEFT

DONALD A. HAYES HELD IN COUNTY JAIL OF LITTLE FALLS

(By United Press) Little Falls, Minn., Aug. 31.—Donald Alger Hayes, 20, is being held in the county jail here charged with stealing three automobiles, one each in the towns of Wadena, Little Falls, and Brainerd.

Police say he confessed to the theft after an all-night grilling, and that he implicated three other men in the crimes.

The three men, whose names police withheld, are being hunted. The car taken at Wadena is said to have been recovered in Leeds, N. D., and the Brainerd car is known to have been sold in Fargo. The machine stolen in Little Falls has not yet been recovered.

found the answer. Nor would I venture to predict that a member of Congress, or a governor, or a university professor or even the President of the United States himself will find the answer. I would rather believe the answer will be found where the problem originated—on the farm. I believe the farmer himself, equipped with the practical knowledge he has gained, and possessed of the unflinching courage we know him to have, will be the biggest factor in reaching the solution. But whether the answer is found on the farm or in the city, in the White House or in the classroom, once it is found, your neighbors in the city and your officials will unite in crystallizing it into legislation that will forever prevent another such crisis.

Some time ago it was announced that a prominent Easterner had hung up a prize of $100,000 for the suggestion and application of the best solution for world peace. No one likes war less than I do; nor does any one believe in nor love peace more than I do. Righteous war is a noble thing; honorable peace exalts a nation, and I stand committed to any patriotic program that will keep the sword in its sheath and the plowshare in the ground.

And so I cannot find it in me to criticize anyone who offers to give a prize to the man or the woman who will tell the people of the world how to live together in peace and amity. I do not question the godly motives behind the offer, nor do I challenge the spirit with which societies and individuals have entered the contest. (After all I believe the winning theory will boil down to the principles of the Golden Rule.)

But today we face an internal problem that is desperately in need of attention. It requires the best thought money can buy or love of country can enlist. The American farmer's condition must be improved or the entire world suffers.

I may be wrong—and I doubt it—but if funds were available for the services of a group of representative, practical, successful farmers, who would thus be enabled to apply themselves to the search for a panacea of agricultural ills, the nation and the world, in my opinion, would benefit fully as much, at least, as from a hunt for means to promote better and more stable international relations.

I do not wish to be misunderstood. America's plain duty is to foster and encourage prosperity and happiness and contentment among its friends the world over. I believe the underlying cause of America's greatness is her unselfishness, and the willingness to apply the Biblical injunction to love one's neighbor as

GOV. WARREN OF INDIANA, HAS HIS DIFFICULTIES TOO

FACES 100 CREDITORS, LIABILITIES FROM $1,000,000 TO $2,000,000

BLAMES IT ALL ON AGRICULTURAL DEPRESSION SENDING FARMERS TO BANKRUPTCY

(By United Press) Indianapolis, Aug. 31.—Governor Warren P. McCray, Indiana's "favorite son," faced one hundred creditors here today and told them he cannot meet his financial obligations.

His liabilities—brought on by agricultural depression claimed to have sent thousands of farmers into bankruptcy—are estimated at between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000.

The governor announced he is ready to have the committee of five take over the 15,000 acres of land, 1200 head of prize cattle, notes of half a million dollars accepted for cattle sales and other property.

Mrs. McCray, sister of George Ade, agreed loyally to her husband's plans to "square accounts" by waiving her right to one-third of his property, to which she would be legally entitled.

The creditors gathered at the Severin Hotel to hear the governor's plans and act upon them. He will disclose fully, it was said, the record of the transactions which caused his present chaotic state by losses in land and livestock deals.

The committee of five told him that the estate would be taken over by the creditors themselves. McCray is withholding only his home at Kentland, where news of his plight has stunned the home town folks.

Friends of the governor declare that if the creditors accept his proposition to take the estate and give him a "chance" he will emerge solvent as soon as agricultural difficulties improve. Some of his business associates declared that with fair liquidation the assets will amount to $750,000 more than the liabilities.

N. P. Gross Earnings in State Up $1,000,000

St. Paul, Aug. 31.—Northern Pacific gross earnings in Minnesota for the first half of 1923 were $10,983,176, greater by more than $1,000,000 than those of the corresponding period of 1922, a report filed with the Minnesota tax commission today showed. The gross earnings for the 1922 half year period were $9,939,521.36. Operating expenses in the first half of 1922 were reported as $8,083,961.43, and this half year, as $9,401,091.73.

St. Paul, Aug. 31.—Gross earnings of Minnesota railroads were $12,000,000 more the first half of this year than for the same period last year.

This was revealed by the state tax commission today, with the filing of the report of the last road, the Chicago & Northwestern.

The total earnings this year during the six months were $72,214,173, on which the 5 per cent tax to the state will be $3,610,709. The corresponding figures for last year were $69,821,417 and $3,041,070.

Illinoisans to Hear Magnus Johnson Sept. 8

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Illinois political leaders, and particularly the farmers of the state, will have their first opportunity to hear United States Senator Magnus Johnson at the farmer-labor convention at Decatur Sept. 8. In preparation for their state gathering this year the farm-labor leaders obtained incorporation papers at Springfield. The party now is one of the legally constituted political organizations of Illinois.

Washington, Aug. 31.—Bert M. Jewell, head of the railway employees department, American Federation of Labor, today charged in a letter to John L. Lewis, that many railroads which use or are interested in the anthracite coal mines are themselves using the checkoff for which the employers are objecting which the employers are objecting in the case of the anthracite mine workers.

MAYOR NELSON OF ST. PAUL ADDRESSES THE COUNTY FAIR

LARGE CROWD HEARS HIM EXPOUND FARM PROBLEMS AT PEQUOT THURSDAY EVE

ST. PAUL EXECUTIVE IMPRESSED BY WONDERFUL PRODUCTS OF SOIL, ETC.

Thursday night the Crow Wing county fair at Pequot reached the high water mark in attendance and enthusiasm.

Brainerd people came in such a throng that the front gates were bulged in.

They marvelled at the products of the soil, the corn stalks which stretched from floor to roof of the agricultural building, plums as big as peaches, wide-eyed potatoes, grains and grasses; iron ore display from the Cuyuna iron range; the comprehensive marl exhibit from a dozen beds in the county; the Breezy Point Lodge summer resort exhibit of fish, game, wild animals, etc.; the Pequot consolidated school exhibit; Pelican Better Farming club display; Perry Hardware Co. of Brainerd Toyland and children's playground; ball game, Pequot, 7, Brainerd Shop Team, 4, with no casualties and the umpire surviving; the band music and racing program; the cattle exhibits; the flashing of the double header bill of fireworks, Vesuvius and Verdun locking arms and blasting their way into the empyreal spheres above.

With such a setting it takes some orator to hold the attention of the people and St. Paul's popular, aggressive, young mayor was equal to the task. His simple, unaffected style of delivery; his plain, honest convictions; his intense sympathy and good fellowship just permeated his talk to the home folks and he gained friends by the hundreds and applause of the most lavish kind.

Mayor Nelson's Address
Mayor Arthur E. Nelson said in part:

"I have heard so much about Crow Wing county and its annual fair, and so much about the picturesque Cuyuna range and the people here, that when an opportunity came to meet you and see your country I gladly dropped everything to take advantage of it.

The city of St. Paul, which I have the honor at this time to represent, is your neighbor—and a good neighbor, I hope—interested in the same things, confronted by the same problems and aiming, I know, at identical ideals. Ramsey and Crow Wing counties were founded on the same faith among pioneers, and their histories are dotted by the same inspiring examples of courage, indomitable will and initiative.

We all believe in Minnesota—believe in it just as much as ever did our forefathers—and whether we labor in Crow Wing or Ramsey county is neither here nor there. Ahead of us is one goal, and though we may travel different routes, in spirit, at least, we are united, and as we travel we may with profit to both of us fight the battles of all because the greatest good of all because number is still the foundation of national happiness and prosperity.

And so I say to you in all sincerity that the people of St. Paul are intensely interested in finding a way out of the difficulties into which the farmers were plunged soon after the close of the war. I could not look you in the eye tonight if it were not so, because I believe the most patriotic thing we can do at this time is to apply ourselves to a study of those difficulties with a whole and an unselfish heart.

You will all recall what Mark Twain once said about the weather—"everybody is talking about it but no one seems to be doing anything." As I travel about I am impressed by the fact that everybody is talking about the farmer's problems, and if no one seems to be doing anything it is because the way has not yet been revealed. But I ask you to take comfort from the knowledge that the American people have never yet applied themselves to the solution of any problem that was not correctly and permanently solved. And so it is going to be with the farmer's problem. It will be solved—correctly and permanently, and, I pray, promptly.

I do not flatter myself that I have found the answer. Nor would I venture to predict that a member of Congress, or a governor, or a university professor or even the President of the United States himself will find the answer. I would rather believe the answer will be found where the problem originated—on the farm. I believe the farmer himself, equipped with the practical knowledge he has gained, and possessed of the unflinching courage we know him to have, will be the biggest factor in reaching the solution. But whether the answer is found on the farm or in the city, in the White House or in the classroom, once it is found, your neighbors in the city and your officials will unite in crystallizing it into legislation that will forever prevent another such crisis.

Some time ago it was announced that a prominent Easterner had hung up a prize of $100,000 for the suggestion and application of the best solution for world peace. No one likes war less than I do; nor does any one believe in nor love peace more than I do. Righteous war is a noble thing; honorable peace exalts a nation, and I stand committed to any patriotic program that will keep the sword in its sheath and the plowshare in the ground.

And so I cannot find it in me to criticize anyone who offers to give a fortune to the man or the woman who will tell the people of the world how to live together in peace and amity. I do not question the motives behind the offer, nor do I challenge the spirit with which societies and individuals have entered the contest. (After all I believe the winning theory will boil down to the principles of the Golden Rule.) But today we face an internal problem that is desperately in need of attention. It requires the best thought money can buy or love of country can enlist. The American farmer's condition must be improved or the entire world suffers.

I may be wrong—and I doubt it—but if funds were available for the services of a group of representative, practical, successful farmers, who would thus be enabled to apply themselves to the search for a panacea of agricultural ills, the nation and the world, in my opinion, would benefit fully as much, at least, as from a hunt for means to promote better and more stable international relations.

I do not wish to be misunderstood. America's plain duty is to foster and encourage prosperity and happiness and contentment among its friends the world over. I believe the underlying cause of America's greatness is her unselfishness, and the willingness to apply the Biblical injunction to love one's neighbor as

Berkeley, Calif., Aug. 31.—The old idea that the color red has the effect of producing anger in a bull is a fallacy, according to Dr. G. M. Stratton, of the University of California, after six months of experimenting in which he and his assistants waved flags of all colors before bulls, cows and calves.

Dr. Stratton announced that he found the animals interested rather in the motion of the object presented to them than its color and declared that once their curiosity in this respect had been appeased, they paid no more attention to the flag regardless of its color.

BRAINERD BOY HELD FOR THEFT

DONALD A. HAYES HELD IN COUNTY JAIL OF LITTLE FALLS

(By United Press)
Little Falls, Minn., Aug. 31.—Donald Alger Hayes, 20, is being held in the county jail here charged with stealing three automobiles, one each in the towns of Wadena, Little Falls, and Brainerd.

Police say he confessed to the theft after an all-night grilling, and that he implicated three other men in the crimes.

The three men, whose names police withheld, are being hunted. The car taken at Wadena is said to have been recovered in Leeds, N. D., and the Brainerd car is known to have been sold in Fargo. The machine stolen in Little Falls has not yet been recovered.

GOV. WARREN OF INDIANA, HAS HIS DIFFICULTIES TOO

FACES 100 CREDITORS, LIABILITIES FROM $1,000,000 TO $2,000,000

BLAMES IT ALL ON AGRICULTURAL DEPRESSION SENDING FARMERS TO BANKRUPTCY

(By United Press)
Indianapolis, Aug. 31.—Governor Warren P. McCray, Indiana's "favorite son," faced one hundred creditors here today and told them he cannot meet his financial obligations.

His liabilities—brought on by agricultural depression claimed to have sent thousands of farmers into bankruptcy—are estimated at between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000.

The governor announced he is ready to have the committee of five take over the 15,000 acres of land, 1200 head of prize cattle, notes of half a million dollars accepted for cattle sales and other property.

Mrs. McCray, sister of George Ade, agreed loyally to her husband's plans to "square accounts" by waiving her right to one-third of his property, to which she would be legally entitled.

The creditors gathered at the Severin Hotel to hear the governor's plans and act upon them. He will disclose fully, it was said, the record of the transactions which caused his present chaotic state by losses in land and livestock deals.

The committee of five told him that the estate would be taken over by the creditors themselves. McCray is withholding only his home at Kentland, where news of his plight has stunned the home town folks.

Friends of the governor declare that if the creditors accept his proposition to take the estate and give him a "chance" he will emerge solvent as soon as agricultural difficulties improve. Some of his business associates declared that with fair liquidation the assets will amount to $750,000 more than the liabilities.

N. P. Gross Earnings in State Up $1,000,000

St. Paul, Aug. 31.—Northern Pacific gross earnings in Minnesota for the first half of 1923 were $10,983,176, greater by more than $1,000,000 than those of the corresponding period of 1922, a report filed with the Minnesota tax commission today showed. The gross earnings for the 1922 half year period were $9,939,521.36. Operating expenses in the first half of 1922 were reported as $8,083,961.43, and this half year, as $9,401,091.73.

St. Paul, Aug. 31.—Gross earnings of Minnesota railroads were $12,000,000 more the first half of this year than for the same period last year.

This was revealed by the state tax commission today, with the filing of the report of the last road, the Chicago & Northwestern.

The total earnings this year during the six months were $72,214,173, on which the 5 per cent tax to the state will be $3,610,709. The corresponding figures for last year were $50,821,417 and $3,041,070.

Illinoisans to Hear Magnus Johnson Sept. 8

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Illinois political leaders, and particularly the farmers of the state, will have their first opportunity to hear United States Senator Magnus Johnson at the farmer-labor convention at Decatur Sept. 8. In preparation for their state gathering this year the farm-labor leaders obtained incorporation papers at Springfield. The party now is one of the legally constituted political organizations of Illinois.

of Garrison, is visiting in Brainerd for a few days. Mr. Dinwiddie is one of the early residents around Mille Lacs lake, coming from Wisconsin and taking a homestead in 1882. He recalls that in those days there were few roads in the county and no bridges. Three days were consumed in coming to Brainerd, a town of few stores but many saloons in those days. Indians tried to drive him from his land, but were unsuccessful, and he finally sold the property for $85 per acre.

A yarn was started in Los Angeles that Harry Wolverton had been picked to succeed Jack Miller next year as manager of the Seals. San Francisco club officials immediately denied it.

Scout Charley Stis of the Phillies liked Pitcher Tony Welser of Muskegon so well that he offered $3,000 for him on behalf of the Philadelphia club, but the Muskegon management refused.

New Orleans fans who howled when Manager Larry Gilbert let Eucal Clanton go can now chew on developments at Little Rock. Kid Elberfeld took Clanton on with some flourish, but after two weeks' trial turned him back to the Cleveland club.

Manager Lee Fohl says the best way to break the Yankees is for some team to challenge their lead. He thinks the Yanks can't stand close competition, yet they seemed to get through well enough last season when the Browns ran them nose and rose to the wire.

This must have been interesting—two old-timers like Jim Scott and George Foster in a 1 to 0 pitching duel. That is what happened at Los Angeles. Foster for Vernon, was the winner over Scott for San Francisco. Thus do the consters develop young talent for future needs.

He recalls that in those days there were few roads in the county and no bridges. Three days were consumed in coming to Brainerd, a town of few stores but many saloons in those days. Indians tried to drive him from his land, but were unsuccessful, and he finally sold the property for $85 per acre.

A yarn was started in Los Angeles that Harry Wolverton had been picked to succeed Jack Miller next year as manager of the Seals. San Francisco club officials immediately denied it.

Scout Charley Stils of the Phillies liked Pitcher Tony Welzer of Muskegon so well that he offered $3,000 for him on behalf of the Philadelphia club, but the Muskegon management refused.

New Orleans fans who howled when Manager Larry Gilbert let Eucal Clanton go can now chew on developments at Little Rock. Kid Elberfeld took Clanton on with some flourish, but after two weeks' trial turned him back to the Cleveland club.

Manager Lee Fohl says the best way to break the Yankees is for some team to challenge their lead. He thinks the Yanks can't stand close competition, yet they seemed to get through well enough last season when the Browns ran them nose and rose to the wire.

This must have been interesting—two old-timers like Jim Scott and George Foster in a 1 to 0 pitching duel. That is what happened at Los Angeles. Foster for Vernon, was the winner over Scott for San Francisco. Thus do the coasters develop young talent for future needs.

PRIMARY VERSUS CONVENTION

THE National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws is against the primary election system. The commissioners have brought in a report which condemns this system in no uncertain terms. The reasons for the condemnation are the multiplicity of names appearing on the ballots in the primary election which tends to confuse the voters, the fact that the people do not secure information that will enable them to make an intelligent choice, the expense of the advertising necessary to appeal to the voters, which makes it hard for a poor man to gain proper publicity, and the liability of a disruption of the political parties through the multiplicity of blocs.

The report of the commissioners contains much that deserves consideration and the probability is that the criticisms they direct against the primary system are justified by the facts; but while this may be granted, it may be claimed that the defects of the primary system will be cured as time passes. The primary system was introduced to remove the defects of the convention system and it has eliminated some of these to show defects in its own operation.

Those who stress the defects of the primary system usually emphasize the fact that our government is representative in its character. It is, and the very word "representative" indicates that it stands for something or somebody, and in the case of the government of the United States that somebody is the people.

The primary system is not above criticism but the system that it displaced was equally at fault. It was because the people were not considered by the delegates in party conventions that the public insisted on the opportunity of expression through the primary. Of course, the way the primary has been used by the people who have not been docile followers of party leaders has not predisposed those who are more interested in party than public to say a word favorable to the primary system.

One of the strongest objections to the primary system is found in the fact that the people have not appreciated it. The voters have not shown a very warm interest in the primary, and it is true that it happens at times that a minority candidate is chosen in the primary election. But this was to be expected. People whose wishes counted for little during the years when the convention system was in operation did not at once see the advantage conferred upon them by the primary system. They may be expected to realize this in time, just as it is to be expected that the faults of the primary system will be removed after experience has brought a knowledge of ways to overcome them.

It is interesting that the commissioners do not suggest ways and means of removing these defects. They condemn the system and would seek a return to the convention system without attempting in any way to make the primary workable. Their failure to suggest methods of improving the primary system, while they point to the defects of the system, is so obviously born of a dislike of the primary system that it is not worthy of very much consideration by the public. The commissioners use the facts to support a foregone conclusion that was not born of a study of the facts but of disapproval of the tendency to place government in the hands of the people.

The commissioners may not like the primary system; party leaders may dislike it, but despite the facts assembled by the commissioners, it is probable that it contains the only hope of the dominant parties in American politics. A return to the convention system with its abuses would not be tolerated by Americans today, who, failing to find expression in the conventions of the recognized political parties, would seek some other means of expression. It may be true that the primary is all that its critics say of it, but when these have nothing better to offer than the old convention system they do not stir any deep longings for a reversion to a system repudiated by the people because of its abuses.

DECLARING WAR BY REFERENDUM

THOMAS R. MARSHALL, former vice president of the United States, has suggested that an international agreement be secured by which nations would be required to submit the question of going to war to the people and to agree that in case of a favorable vote of all men and women above 18 years of age the declaration of war should be withheld for 60 days.

This suggestion has caused amusement in some quarters. Writers have pointed out that it would not be worth much in countries such as Mexico, China or Russia. In some cases the decision would be nothing more than a decision of the dominant forces who would control the vote of the people, so that the people would have nothing to say about it and there would be no chance of any postponement through a period of 60 days.

This may be true of certain countries where government is not of a stable character or where it is autocratic and arbitrary and the people count for little, but there is another objection to the proposal which lies in the fact that any people would be subjected to the influence of propaganda and would not be sure of getting the truth of the matter.

It is possible to tear such a proposal to pieces and the hard-headed writer who is without idealism may laugh at it as a silly dream, impractical and visionary. These see nothing but war and more war on the horizon. There is no hope of anything in the future that has not been in the past. But when their arguments are analyzed they invite laughter from the other side. All the talk about the unfortunate position America would be in, if she had voted against war when some other nation—say, Japan—had voted for it, is amusing. In such a case the vote of the American people would count for nothing, and such critics know this. In case of a defensive war, when the other side made its attack, no matter how the American people had voted, they would leap to arms and they would carry on with a will to victory.

There is a good deal in this suggestion. It may offer difficulties, but in very few cases would the people in any nation vote for an offensive war, and those who voted against an offensive war would be ready to fight in case of attack by another power. The matter has nothing to do with defensive war for if there are no aggressors there will be no need for defensive fighting. Raising the question of defensive warfare will not becloud the issue, for apart from a few extreme pacifists everybody believes in a defensive war and would be ready to support it after the aggressor had made his declaration of war or in the absence of it had made an attack.

EUROPE TAKES FIFTY PER CENT OF U. S. EXPORTS

DESPITE all that has been said about the failure of Europe to buy from the United States the department of commerce has submitted figures that show that during the first six months of 1923 Europe took 50 per cent of our exports. Compared with 1922 the reduction in exports to Europe amounted to but 4 per cent. This presents a much brighter picture than that painted by those who have been attempting to play up the decrease in exports to show the dreadful condition of Europe with resultant loss to the United States.

There is no doubt but that, had it not been for the depression in Europe, our exports would have amounted to very much more. But there is no certainty that a much greater amount of this would have been in wheat. With agriculture in Europe restored and some of the nations able to export vast quantities of foodstuffs America is in competition with those producers. During the war the war activities of the nations over there prohibited the growth of wheat in quantities anything like sufficient for their needs and America was the granary of Europe. Unfortunately American farmers have kept on producing wheat to supply a world market after the other nations have got back to producing themselves.

America is suffering as a result of the depression in Europe, and while the facts are sometimes overstated there is no question but that it is to America's advantage to assist in every possible way in bringing about a stable condition of affairs over there, otherwise our present prosperity will be but temporary. Present prosperity results from supplying home needs that were born of neglect during the war and when these are filled we will need larger markets.

BRITAIN is still blamed for what happens in Ireland. British soldiers are gone, and Free State troops arrested the republican leader, but Britain is to blame. Such obsessions are common. In other minds Wall street is always to blame.

THE government is not to attempt to influence the operators and the miners except through public opinion and procuring sufficient coal to fill the nation's bins. These may be very effective means of reaching the disputants.

SOMETHING ought to be said of Minnesota as a workshop to the tourists who invade the state. Too much emphasis on the playground may be a disadvantage and cheapen the state.

A PROFESSOR of the University of Minnesota says that you cannot read character by looking at the face. That is helpful to those of us who are not possessed of good looks.

This presents a much brighter picture than that painted by those who have been attempting to play up the decrease in exports to show the dreadful condition of Europe with resultant loss to the United States.

There is no doubt but that, had it not been for the depression in Europe, our exports would have amounted to very much more. But there is no certainty that a much greater amount of this would have been in wheat. With agriculture in Europe restored and some of the nations able to export vast quantities of foodstuffs America is in competition with those producers. During the war the war activities of the nations over there prohibited the growth of wheat in quantities anything like sufficient for their needs and America was the granary of Europe. Unfortunately American farmers have kept on producing wheat to supply a world market after the other nations have got back to producing themselves.

America is suffering as a result of the depression in Europe, and while the facts are sometimes overstated there is no question but that it is to America's advantage to assist in every possible way in bringing about a stable condition of affairs over there, otherwise our present prosperity will be but temporary. Present prosperity results from supplying home needs that were born of neglect during the war and when these are filled we will need larger markets.

BRITAIN is still blamed for what happens in Ireland. British soldiers are gone, and Free State troops arrested the republican leader, but Britain is to blame. Such obsessions are common. In other minds Wall street is always to blame.

THE government is not to attempt to influence the operators and the miners except through public opinion and procuring sufficient coal to fill the nation's bins. These may be very effective means of reaching the disputants.

BOY CAPTURED

(By United Press)
St. Paul, Aug. 31—Police this forenoon recaptured William O'Brien, 18, alleged insane youth who was being taken from the Fergus Falls asylum to the Rochester institution. O'Brien, an hour earlier in the day, had escaped from his guard at the union station here while changing trains. A. F. Sherman, the guard, was unable to capture the young man as he dashed away. Sherman went on a search for O'Brien and has not returned. Police are trying to locate him.

The Enchanted Land

By JUSTIN WENTWOOD

(©, 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

A SAD-FACED woman seated in a room, looking out of the window, waiting for her husband to return from that "business" engagement late in the evening. She knows what that engagement was, and keeps silent.

An elderly woman looking into her daughter's face wistfully as she hears the words: "John has asked me to marry him."

A wealthy man looking with strange scrutiny at his son, who has just informed him of his engagement to a chorus girl.

Many are the phases . . . but where is that enchanted land? It recedes ever from view, like a mirage on the horizon, until the day comes when the travelers across the sea of life find that their mirage lies behind them.

That is the great day; that is the day of awakening.

Hester Croft realized this as she looked into the face of her daughter Betty. "Mother, Harry and I are engaged. I am so happy."

And her own thoughts went back to the day when she had gone to her mother and told her of her engagement to Philip. She could not understand the wistful look upon her mother's face.

"I hope you will be very happy, dear," her mother had answered, kissing her.

To Philip and herself the future had then seemed all roses. Hester remembered how she had squeezed his arm as she went down the street with him toward the depot.

"People don't understand, Philip. They don't realize that we are something quite special to each other, do they?"

"It's wonderful," Philip had said, "looking at other people and seeing how indifferent they are to each other. Why, it would kill me if ever you ceased to care for me with your whole heart."

"Oh, that's impossible, Philip," Hester had answered lightly.

And the first quarrel—what had it been about? Oh, yes, Philip, arriving on the train, had seen Hester in conversation with another man. It is true he was stout, elderly, and bald, but what difference did that make if he was a man?

It is also true he was old, Mr. Snow, her mother's life-long friend, and once her suitor—but what difference did that make when he was a man?

But the sweetness of the reconciliation had wiped away the memory of that quarrel. And of the next, and the next. . .

Hester's mind went forward. They were married and living in an apartment. At first Hester used to go to the corner to meet Philip in the evenings. But then the housework made her so tired, and she stopped for a while—for always. It was much harder than Philip imagined, cooking, washing, scrubbing. Then there was Betty. She often sat up at night with the screaming child in the next room, so that Philip should have his sleep undisturbed. Gradually estrangement grew. Their kisses became mechanical.

Then followed the dull, hideous years, when each was too proud to approach the other. They knew that they loved no longer, though they kept up the fiction.

They had become like those other people whom they had derided when they were engaged.

And there stood Betty, that happy look in her eyes: "Mother, Harry and I are engaged. I am so happy."

Yes, now indeed Hester understood the meaning of the look that had been upon her own mother's face.

Philip had come in. Hester looked into his tired face, and a spasm of pity welled up within her. "Philip, Betty is engaged to Harry Drew. I think they are going to be very happy."

"Can he support a wife?" asked Philip.

Hester gave a hysterical little laugh. "Oh, Philip, that's what my father said about you. Don't you remember? Philip, where is that love of ours gone?"

He drew her to him tenderly. "Life kills it, I guess."

"Not if—if one really loves?"

"I do care for you Hester."

"And I for you. But where is it, that—that?"

"Did you ever think perhaps it's a sort of sacred trust? Each generation hands it on to the next? We have loved, dear."

"Do still, in a way."

"A better way, perhaps?"

"I'm not sure it isn't, Philip? There is the tenderness of old association. But—poor Betty!"

"Perhaps," said Philip wistfully, "their love will be the real thing."

"Oh, Philip, dear, that—that's what mother said about you and me!"

Farm Journal Says:

Curious how Peter Tumbledown always manages to get things twisted the wrong way. He told the county agent, the other day, that he had always been a believer in labor-saving devices, and always tried to save labor himself. That is why, he said, he had never bothered to take out the stumps and drain the wet spot in the back fields. He considered it a real saving of labor to plow around them every year. We are afraid the county agent will give up Peter as a bad job.

Night Sticks, Tear Gas Bombs, Streams Of Water Used on Mob

(By United Press)
Perth Amboy, N. J., Aug. 31.—The last of a large crowd of Ku Klux Klansmen who were attacked while in session in a hall here last night escaped from the building at 5 o'clock this morning when police were able to spirit them away in patrol wagons.

The fight lasted the entire night. Several men were injured in the battle. Three were arrested for carrying concealed weapons. Scores were beaten up.

Members of the Ku Klux Klan gathered at the hall for a meeting last evening. A few minutes later a mob began to assemble about the building. The leaders harangued the crowd, urging them to storm the hall and seize the Klansmen.

Police reserves were called. They formed a cordon and tried to disperse the throng. Night sticks, tear gas bombs, firemen shooting high pressure streams of water into the mob did not stop it in its attempt to get into the hall, where 200 Klansmen in full regalia were holding their meeting.

AMUSEMENTS

Agnes Ayres Has A Startling Scene in New Photoplay

A beautiful girl with her hair hanging down her back, her shoes off—in a hotel room alone with a married man! This is the startling situation in which Agnes Ayres, Paramount star, finds herself in her role of Mary Fenton in her new picture, "A Daughter of Luxury," which will be a feature at the Lyceum tonight and Saturday.

The situation, however, which immediately conveys the idea of scandal proves to be the most innocent imaginable.

Mary Fenton, the character played by Miss Ayres, hungry, penniless and homeless, sees a man whom she thinks to be an old friend from her former home town. She accuses him, then discovers she has made a mistake. The man, seeing she is faint with hunger, invites her to dine. She accepts.

They find the only tea room in that section has just closed. He suggests that they go to his room and he will order tea and cake sent up. She wavers between propriety and hunger and finally yields to hunger. After the tea, during which she removes her shoes to rest her aching feet she stands in front of the mirror to redress her hair so she may once more start out in search of a job. It is at this point that she is discovered by a gossip.

$10,000 GOLD CACHE MAY BE BERGDOLL'S

DISCOVERY NEAR HAGERSTOWN, MD., LINKED WITH MONEY BURIED BY DRAFT DODGER

Washington, Aug. 30.—Has the "pot of gold" which Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, draft dodger, claimed to have buried, been found?

War department officials debated this question tonight as the result of the luck of Lee Hauser, highway repairer who yesterday unearthed $10,000 in gold near Hagerstown, Md.

Bergdoll was released by the war department May 20, 1920, from the military prison at Governor's Island, New York, to hunt for the gold, which he said he had buried. But he escaped as soon as he got to Philadelphia and fled to Germany. The mystery of the pot of gold never has been solved.

Today, the Maryland department of the American Legion, meeting at Frederick, Md., decided to make an immediate investigation as to whether the treasure found by Hauser is the Bergdoll gold. The war department also took an interest in the question.

Hauser was swinging his pick, when a $20 gold piece rolled out of the ground. He dug frantically and unearthed a tin box full of the gold coins. Bergdoll said he buried about $100,000 of gold coins in tin boxes within 20 miles of Hagerstown.

THE STUDEBAKER LIGHT-SIX FIVE-PASSENGER TOURING CAR $995

130,000 Owners Know the Value of this Studebaker

Every unit in the new 1924 Studebaker Light-Six Touring Car has proved its dependability in public use.

There are refinements and improvements, of course, but the underlying principles of design and construction which have made enthusiasts of 130,000 purchasers of this model in three years' time, are not radically changed.

In our opinion, the 1924 Light-Six stands out as the greatest value and closest approach to mechanical perfection in moderate priced cars yet produced.

It is practically free from vibration. Studebaker accomplishes this largely by machining the crankshaft and connecting rods on all surfaces. This requires 61 precision operations. It is an exclusive Studebaker practice on cars at this price—and is found only on a few other cars—and they're priced above $2500. Absence of vibration prolongs car life, causes slower depreciation, reduces the cost of operation and adds to the enjoyment of driving.

The Light-Six motor embodies the most advanced design known to automobile construction. It represents an achievement in the manufacture of quality cars in big volume.

Aside from its mechanical excellence, the Light-Six is handsome in design, extremely comfortable, sturdy and economical to operate just as it is in initial cost. It is powerful, speedy, has a pick-up range that is seldom taxed and never exhausted, is easy to handle, and convenient to park.

Its enameled all-steel body, one-piece, rain-proof windshield, ten-inch cushions upholstered in genuine leather, and cowl lamps are among many features heretofore to be had only in higher priced cars.

For 71 years the name Studebaker has stood for unflinching integrity, quality and value.

New all-steel body of striking beauty. One-piece, rain-proof windshield with attractive cowl lights set in base. Quick-action cowl ventilator. Door curtains, bound on three sides by steel rods, open with doors. Removable upholstery in tonneau. Door pocket flaps with weights hold them in shape. Upholstered in genuine leather. Large rectangular window in rear curtain. Third-proof transmission lock. Standard one-aid coil fogs, front and rear.

The Difference in Advertising is the Difference in Men

Of itself, advertising is little. And the differences in it are the differences which exist in men.

Just as some men are strong and virile and interesting, so is some advertising. And just as some men are ineffectual and weak and boring, so is some other advertising.

"Does it pay to advertise?" It pays those men who are keen enough students of the public to make it pay them. It pays those men who are truthful, sincere, interesting and believable.

It pays the men whose product deserves the payment, whose brains are keen enough to organize for success and judge enough of the human mind to know how to tell their story with sincerity and interest.

So when you judge advertising, judge it by how it is used and by whom—not of itself and of itself alone.

Remember, an ugly man looks just as ugly in a mirror.

AMUSEMENTS

Agnes Ayres Has A Startling Scene in New Photoplay

A beautiful girl with her hair hanging down her back, her shoes off—in a hotel room alone with a married man! This is the startling situation in which Agnes Ayres, Paramount star, finds herself in her role of Mary Fenton in her new picture, "A Daughter of Luxury," which will be a feature at the Lyceum tonight and Saturday.

The situation, however, which immediately conveys the idea of scandal proves to be the most innocent imaginable.

Mary Fenton, the character played by Miss Ayres, hungry, penniless and homeless, sees a man whom she thinks to be an old friend from her former home town. She accosts him, then discovers she has made a mistake. The man, seeing she is faint with hunger, invites her to dine. She accepts.

They find the only tea room in that section has just closed. He suggests that they go to his room and he will order tea and cake sent up. She wavers between propriety and hunger and finally yields to hunger. After the tea, during which she removes her shoes to rest her aching feet she stands in front of the mirror to redress her hair so she may once more start out in search of a job. It is at this point that she is discovered by a gossip.

Thrifty Housewives' MARKET GUIDE

Household Suggestions

To Clean Gilt Frames

Warm water, to which household ammonia has been added, will clean gilt picture frames. Dry with cloth immediately.

A Different Perfume

Whole cloves sprinkled liberally throughout the clothes that are to be packed away will answer the same purpose as moth balls.

To Open Oven Quickly

If the oven of the coal range is not hot enough for a pie or biscuits, take one of the hot front stove lids, place it under the article to be baked, and put them both in the oven. The front hole of the range can be covered with a kettle of water, and hot water will be forthcoming as well as goodies to eat.

Utility Notes

Apples will keep sound if packed in sawdust.

Rust can be removed from knives by rubbing with a cut onion.

A good-looking collar and cuff set will fairly rejuvenate the slightly worn frock.

A splendid furniture polish can be made at home by combining three parts of linseed oil with one part spirits of turpentine.

Removes Ink Stains

Equal parts of vinegar and linseed oil applied to ink stains on wood with a soft cloth will effectually efface them.

Good Gravy

If possible use the water from your potatoes when making gravy from fried or roasted meats. It will add more flavor.

For White Shades

Try cleaning white linen shades with equal parts of flour and borax. Lay the shade out flat and rub the dry mixture on with a cloth.

Small Pans for Success

Never use a large pan for omelet or the eggs will spread and the omelet become thin and tough. A small deep pan is ideal if you are not fortunate enough to own a regular omelet pan.

Think Before Buying

It is not wise to lay in large quantities of cereals, raisins, spaghetti and other mice attracting foods. Stores are so handy to most of us nowadays that the few cents gained in buying these things in bulk are not worth the worry we have in keeping away mice and bugs.

Maddened Bees Sting 42 Chickens to Death

St. James, Minn., Aug. 31.—A bee fight royal was staged today at the apiary of E. B. Woodard. A colony of visiting bees attempted to get into the hives of the home bees, but after a stubborn fight were driven off. Maddened by their defeat the bees attacked every living thing they could light on. Forty-two prize White Wyandot pullets in the pen nearby were stung to death. Mr. Woodard heard the commotion and fought the bees. He used a smoke screen and finally attacked them with a hose and water, and after soaking them down, subdued them. He was badly stung in the fight.

Remedy for Curl in Rugs

The curling up of the edges of rugs is caused by the way in which they are woven. A remedy for this is to take two strips of very thin wool, each about three inches long, and sew on the underneath part of the rug at the corners. Let these remain for about a month, when the rugs will have conformed to the floors. Or rubber corner tips may be purchased in a furniture store.

World's Longest Poem.

The longest poem on record is Spenser's "Faerie Queens." It is only a quarter the length of the original plan, yet it is as long as Homer's "Iliad" and "Odyssey" and Virgil's "Aeneid" put together, and more than three times bigger than Milton's "Paradise Lost" and "Paradise Regained" in one.

World's Longest Poem.
The longest poem on record is Spenser's "Faerie Queens." It is only a quarter the length of the original plan, yet it is as long as Homer's "Iliad" and "Odyssey" and Virgil's "Aeneid" put together, and more than three times bigger than Milton's "Paradise Lost" and "Paradise Regained" in one.

Consoling Thought.
We all make mistakes, but thank goodness the other fellow's always looks worse to us than our own.

STATE FAIR--DAIRY SHOW FEATURES IN A NUTSHELL

THE Minnesota State Fair and Northwest Dairy Exposition, September 1 to 8, will be a world's exposition. No Fair in America has ever arranged so many big educational features as will be unfolded before the people of the great Northwest.

First on the program will be the Million Dollar Dairy Exposition, with 1,500 head of the finest dairy cattle on exhibit. Next comes the wonderful agricultural display which has been arranged for this year's State Fair with more than half of the counties of the state competing. Yet, neither of these great exhibits will make a deeper impression on visitors than the club demonstration work by 1,000 boys and girls representing every county in the state.

The work of the women with their exhibits of baking, canning, sewing will be a revelation. The Style Show will be equally as interesting. The big machinery exhibit of 80 acres, will show every kind of modern farm equipment.

There is no limit to what one may learn at the State Fair. The educational program is made up of thousands of exhibits of value. And great as it is, the management has not overlooked the entertainment side. More than $150,000 has been spent for attractions. There will be 17 big circus acts, harness and horse racing, aviation, auto polo, auto racing, fireworks, a midway, and fifteen big bands and orchestras to add to the general gaiety.

It will be the fair of fairs, so be there.

Brainerd Gets First Benefits From New Locomotives Bought by Northern Pacific

"W-5" CLASS ARE BIG FELLOWS

Innovations Include Change of Air Pumps, Brakeman Rides in House on Tender, Etc.

Brainerd is this week getting the first benefits from the new locomotives which the Northern Pacific announced had been purchased and would be put into service in the near future.

Four of these big engines are now working on the Lake Superior division, between Duluth and Staples. They are the largest locomotives that have been used in this territory, heavier even than the ones put into service several years ago. They are of the "W-5" class.

Several innovations are noticed on these "iron steeds." One is the change of the air pumps, from the side of the boiler to the front end, and the headlight placed beneath them in a lower position than heretofore.

Another improvement is a small house built on the top of the tender, in which the brakeman rides. Formerly one of the trainmen in the freight work was compelled to ride in the engine cab, but on the new locomotives there is no room for him there, hence the small house on the tender.

Other new engines are being received by the Northern Pacific and are being sent west for work in the mountains. They include both freight and passenger engines, of the latest and largest types. Many new cars will also be put into service in the near future, in line with the company's improvement program.

For Miss Georgia Frost

Miss Maude Williams entertained at a miscellaneous shower on Thursday evening, in honor of her friend, Miss Georgia Frost, a bride-to-be of next month. Fifteen young ladies were present.

Miss Frost received many beautiful and useful gifts, the packages being brought in a pink parasol, covered with pink ribbons and flowers.

The evening was spent informally, the hostess serving a dainty three-course luncheon, assisted by Miss Mildred Skauge. Three tables were used, decorated with pink candles and pink verbenas. The guest of honor's chair was tied with pink tulle and sweet peas.

The pink color scheme was carried out in the decoration of the rooms, as well as at the tables, flowers being used in profusion.

MEXICAN GOVERNMENT WILL BE RECOGNIZED

(By United Press)
Washington, Aug. 30.—Recognition probably will be accorded the Mexican government within a few days, it was learned today on highest authority here.

Reports from Mexico City that an American note has been received according recognition were described at the state departments as a "misunderstanding of the situation." Recognition has not yet taken place, it was stated.

PLAYS IN SOLDIER BAND

Brainerd State Fair Visitors Look Up 15th Regiment and See Oscar Risberg

Oscar Risberg writes from Fort Snelling, where he is taking a two-weeks vacation in the training camp, that he is enjoying the outing immensely.

Mr. Risberg states that he plays in the Fifteenth infantry band, an organization of eighty pieces. He also plays reveille in the morning and for dress parade in the afternoon.

On next Wednesday and Thursday his regiment will put on a dress parade on the state fair grounds.

Mr. Risberg is sergeant of his company in the regiment of which he was a member during the Spanish-American war.

In Municipal Court

In municipal court Friday morning, Carl Gardner was found guilty of disorderly conduct and fined $20 and cost, amounting to $9.

The case grew out of trouble arising at a dance at Woodrow on Thursday evening. The arrest was made by the sheriff's office.

Gasoline Tax Is Popular

Thirty-two states have laws in operation that collect revenues by a special tax on gasoline. In most instances this fund is applied to road construction and upkeep. The gasoline tax seems to be growing in popularity. It serves as an unerring meter on the mileage of every motor vehicle traveling, and is regarded as the fairest method yet devised to tax automobiles. In California the system has worked out so satisfactorily that a flat rate of three dollars is charged on all vehicles without reference to motor power. The gas tax equalizes all. Minnesota will vote on a constitutional amendment next year to permit a gas tax in this state. Under this plan the heavy license charges would be reduced and a more equitable system adopted.

Fulero-Landry

Miss Lillian Landry, daughter of Ramie Landry, and formerly of Brainerd, and Gust Fulero of Laredo, Texas, were married in St. Paul on August 23rd by Judge Finch. Gladys Conklin and Jack Wilf, formerly of Brainerd, attended the couple.

The newlyweds will make their home at Emerald, Wisconsin. Both were employed with Armour and Co.

ASKED TO FIX PRICE OF WHEAT

(By United Press)
Wheaton, Aug. 30.—President Coolidge is being constantly called upon to call an extra session of congress to stabilize the price of wheat in many conferences being held in the Northwest.

At the meeting of representatives from three Northwest states here, attended by 12,000, resolutions were adopted in which it is urged that President Coolidge call a special session of congress.

The three states represented were Minnesota and North and South Dakota.

The meeting was attended by many prominent men of these three states, including O. B. Burnett, North Dakota congressman, O. J. Kvale, Minnesota congressman, and former Congressman Halvor Halvorson of North Dakota.

FARMERS' TROUBLES WILL EVENTUALLY BE SOLVED

one's self. But I do say that money spent in the development of economical production and transportation of farm products, a fair and equitable market and a just distribution of profits to the farmer would be money well spent.

I think perhaps the East does not fully understand the problems of the West. Assuming that it does not for lack of daily contact with them, we of the West may excuse the East if it appears to feel that the greatest thing America has to do is to initiate world peace. The East may be right, but I do not believe the west, and more particularly the Northwest, will entirely agree.

We are so utterly dependent on the prosperity of our farms that the East may excuse the West if the West appears to believe that the greatest thing America has to do is to promote that prosperity. Neither the East nor the West, let us say, is altogether selfish. Both are guided by their lights and environment.

No one seems to have anything like a clear notion as to just what it is the farmer needs to place him once more on the sound financial footing from which he was dislodged two or three years ago. I venture to say the farmers themselves will not agree as to the causes or probable cures.

Unfortunately, as this mighty question has been tossed about, it has been picked up by politicians. I do not believe the farmer's welfare has any more place in politics than the war had. No set of men has any more right to try to ride to political success over the misfortunes of the farmer than they had to haggle for power over the lifeless form of an American soldier. I have no patience with the system that permits it.

The solution of the farmer's problem is not reserved for any political party. The solution of the farmer's problem rests with the American people irrespective of political faith, religious creed, color or condition. No one will ever convince me that the farmer should be forced to stand aside in dire want of assistance while his troubles are moulded into campaign ammunition. No man will ever convince me that there is sincerity of purpose in the one who would trade a promise for a vote. Promises are cheap; votes are sacred, and with all my heart I urge the farmers to forget politics and candidates and concentrate on the problem as a concern of the nation, yes, of the world, as a whole.

In closing I have the honor and extreme pleasure to report to you that the Ford plant is being rushed to a materialization of our fondest dreams. I trust that when you attend the State Fair—and I hope you will all be there—that you will take the time and put yourself to the trouble of inspecting the preliminary operations now in progress on the Ford site. I know the coming of that gigantic enterprise will mean much to the future of the Northwest, and I am happy to think that I had something to do with bringing it here.

I am glad to have had these few minutes with you to renew the pledge of St. Paul's friendship and desire to co-operate in any movement that will bring us all closer to a better day.

SPEAK WITH EYE AND HAND

Chinese Said to Have New Language, Which They Are Urging English Detectives to Adopt.

Secret languages already exist among the members of Scotland yard, and bobbies and detectives do not talk only with their lips. There are facial and hand languages, and the latest addition may be a new eyebrow language which is being advocated by a Chinese police official, and which is being considered now in this country and the states, says London Answers.

When extra police are required and the whistle is not available or desirable the sudden closing of both eyes will convey the information.

Two quick movements of the right eyebrow, followed by a swift frown mean: Be ready for instant action. Closing the right eye means: He has got a gun.

Biting the upper lip: Take careful note of what is being said.

The only trouble with these languages is that, unless you know them thoroughly, you may easily convey the wrong thing. For example, if you are talking to a bobby in the presence of a tramp, and the bobby closes his right eye, how will you know whether to sympathize with the policeman for having got an eyelash in his eye—or to run?

Probably, if the new language is approved, we shall get a little further light upon the subject.

U. S. AND AUSTRALIA PLAY FOR DAVIS CUP

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Aug. 31.—Australia and the United States will start today in the new stadium at Forest Hills the seventh battle staged between the two countries for the world's tennis championship, as it is represented in the Davis Cup.

The United States holds the cup, and Australia, as the survivor of seven foreign nations that challenged for the cup, meets the American team in the challenge round of four singles and one doubles matches extending through today, Saturday and Monday.

Interest in these Davis Cup matches is not confined to those who know intimately and those who closely follow tennis. The Davis Cup matches are perhaps the classic international events of all sport and, with the possible exception of the American Yacht Cup, there is no sport trophy with so much glorious prestige behind it and no other trophy in sports is so thoroughly symbolic of a world supremacy on an athletic field as the Davis Cup.

Dwight F. Davis, now president of the United States Lawn Tennis association, got the idea while he was one of the ranking stars of the country at Harvard that the sport could be developed and friendly international relations promoted by a cup that would be competed for by several of the big international powers.

When he offered the cup in 1900, he had no idea that it would be the means of developing the sport in every civilized nation of the world and would develop tennis into the only established international sport played under standard rules in every corner of the globe.

For several years competition was confined to the English speaking race, but interest was so developed by the cup competition that seventeen nations challenged this year for the honor of playing the team of star Americans.

Over the stretch of twenty-three years since the cup was first played for, the United States has won it six times, Australia six times and the British Isles five times. None but English speaking nations have been successful in winning the cup, but the Japanese and the Belgians have reached the challenge round and the French and Italian teams have developed into strong contenders.

The United States came into its most recent possession of the cup in 1920, when Bill Tilden, Bill Johnston, Dick Williams and Watson Washburn journeyed to Auckland and defeated the Australian team.

No more popular and no more deserving a champion than Miss Helen Wills, the pretty California girl, ever arose to the top in any professional or amateur sport.

The seventeen-year-old Berkeley miss has everything that could possibly be expected in a champion. She has "looks," and certainly that is an asset for a little miss who seems destined to have tennis at her feet for many years to come. She is modest, refined and a "perfect little lady" on and off the court, and, as far as her game is concerned, she lacks not a single thing.

Helen Wills is the champion of America now, she will be the leader of her class for years to come, and paste it in your hat that Helen Wills is going to be the champion of the world some day, and a champion greater than the great French girl, Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen.

When "little Helen" won the championship from Mrs. Molla Mallory in the recent "nationals" five thousand frenzied spectators arose and gave her a demonstration of the like of which have never been surpassed as a whole-hearted, sincere tribute to a great athlete.

Her supporters, her admirers and her "fans" will run into millions before her reign is over, because in Helen Wills is represented everything that America cherishes as ideal qualifications in a sport where the ethics are unusually high and exacting.

The new girl champion is a born tennis player. She took to the game naturally and instead of being handicapped by conditions in the early part of her career which forced her to play with boys her own age and older, she benefited by it to a vast extent.

Against a virile, masculine style of play she quite naturally was forced into the same kind of a game to survive and she built up a game that is most effective against women players.

Tutored by "Bill" Johnston, one of the greatest of all players, she learned much and she acquired more by studying the strokes and the tactics of that great little California wizard. Her game is powerful, thorough and sound and from a superficial view there is no defect in her style. Watching her in her matches against the British players in the Wighton Cup contests and later in the national championships, Wallis Meyers, the foremost authority of England, had only one criticism of her game.

"She has a most wonderful net game, but she does not seem inclined to go to the net enough and make the most of her ability," he said.

Others have observed the same fault. Net players, especially among the women, are so few that it is most striking to see a player of such ability staying in the back court. However, it is maintained by some that she has more effectiveness in playing as she does.

George Agutter, professional instructor at the West Side Tennis Club, believes that she has a most effective style of play. Knowing that her opponents realize the power and strength of her game when she comes to the net, she keeps them constantly under the mental hazard by staying back court and coming up only at the most unexpected moments.

"In playing against Miss Wills, I found it very disconcerting to try and figure when she was coming up so as to regulate my game against her," Agutter said. "Naturally, under such conditions, it is hard to maintain a constant game against her. If she came to the net frequently or followed a regular style of attack in coming forward, it would be easier to meet her game than to stay back and be forced into the annoyance of figuring what she was about to do."

"I asked her what system she followed in going to the net and she couldn't explain. She said she just went up and she didn't know when or why."

ILLINOIS BOXING CARD STOPPED WHEN GATE RECEIPTS ARE MISSED

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Boxing in Illinois received another black eye last night when the tournament at Hawthorne was stopped because someone had slipped away with the gate receipts, leaving nothing to pay the principals.

All through the underworld today the statement was made that "Frenchy" Mader, former union labor czar, and recent defendant in a murder case, had "gone south" with the $6,000 gate receipts, together with a handsome sum realized from the beer running concession at Hawthorne during the recent race meeting. It is intimated that he is well on his way to Mexico. There is hanging over him a penitentiary sentence for extortion and Chicago had become too hot for him.

Harry D. Koffman, the ostensible promoter of last night's boxing tournament, also is missing today. It was discovered today that he recently sold his motion picture theatre. He and Mader were intimate friends and if they departed together, they have a lead of 24 hours over the authorities. Mader's friends say he will not again be seen in Chicago unless he is caught and brought back.

DAVIS CUP FINALS OPENING TODAY

New York, Aug. 31.—William M. Johnston will meet James O. Anderson and William T. Tilden will meet John B. Hawkes this afternoon in the singles tennis matches that open today between the United States and Australia for the Davis cup.

On Monday, Johnston will meet Hawkes, and Tilden will play Anderson. Drawings for the doubles play Saturday will not be announced until tomorrow.

French Davis Cup Star Meets Howard Kinsey

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 31.—Rene Lacoste, French Davis cup star who scored an upset by defeating Francis T. Hunter, Wimbledon runnerup, in the southern New York state championship at the Westchester-Biltmore Country club, today meets Howard Kinsey in the lower bracket of the semifinal round. The young Frenchman who is only 19, defeated Hunter in straight sets, 6-4, 6-1.

Four Teams in Bemidji Baseball Tournament

Bemidji, Aug. 31.—A northern Minnesota baseball tournament in which the Bagley, Cass Lake, Walker and Bemidji teams will compete for a $200 purse will be held here Sunday and Monday under the auspices of the Ralph Grace Post of the American Legion.

Two games will be played Sunday afternoon, the two winners to meet on Monday afternoon for the $200 purse. The tournament is the first of its kind to be held in this part of the state and large delegations are reported to be planning to attend from the outside cities taking part in the tournament as well as the surrounding country.

"Big Six" Honored at Home Town Celebration

Seranton, Pa., Aug. 31.—Christy Mathewson, the "Big Six" of baseball, came back to his home town, Factoryville, in a farming district near here, to be the guest of honor of his boyhood playmates at a fair.

On the same lot where Matty began his famous baseball career years ago, he will appear today in the role of umpire for two Factoryville teams. It will be "Christy Mathewson day."

"I'm always glad to get back home with the old folks," said Mathewson to a group of friends who greeted him on his arrival.

York, England, Aug. 29.—Papyrus was declared winner of the York stakes here this afternoon, after Craigely had actually finished ahead in the race.

Officials of the race barred Craigely out on the grounds of boring during the race.

After the conference judges declared Papyrus winner.

There was tremendous interest in the race, as Papyrus, winner of the derby, had been picked as a representative British three-year old to meet an American horse at Belmont next October.

The corrected result is Papyrus first, Concertina second, and Tricky Aunt third.

Spanish Place-Names Retained.

All the place acquired by the United States from Mexico, particularly southern California, keeps alive in its place-names the memory of its Spanish explorers and settlers. While there are Indian names on the Pacific coast, it is a curious fact that these are few, relatively speaking, in comparison with the rest of the country. North of the Spanish belt capes and towns often reflect the loyalty of early settlers to the older states of the Union.

Diamond Squibs

Our pitchers seem to mean well, but feebly.

Adolpho Luque, the little Cuban, continues with his winning ways.

Leo McDonald, who has been managing the Grand Island team of the Nebraska State league, has resigned.

Wade Killefer denies with some heat that he is dissatisfied with his investment in the Seattle club and would like to sell.

The Grand Rapids club has transferred Outfielder Harry Carey (Devere) to the Vicksburg club of the Cotton States league.

The Wichita club announced the purchase of the veteran catcher, Joe Casey, from the Greenville club of the South Atlantic league.

Joe Leary, veteran Eastern league outfielder, was given his release by Pittsfield, which obtained him in a winter trade from Albany.

Frank Wetzel, Oakland outfielder, who broke his leg early in the season, has so far recovered that he is in the game again for the Oaks.

Red Torkelson played the iron man for the Hattiesburg team in the Cotton States league, pitching and winning both games against Greenwood.

Outfielders of visiting teams at the Yankees' new stadium have found plenty of trouble playing in the big garden until they get the hang of it.

Emmett Mulvey, after a bad start, is batting and fielding in his old time form for Mobile, and his work is helping the champions up in the Southern league race.

When the Minneapolis club refused to pay a fine assessed by an umpire on Tom Phillips the pitcher up and jumped to one of those shop teams in Wisconsin.

Dennis Wiley, refusing to accept a transfer from Oakland to Little Rock, announced that he was through with baseball and asked his release. The Oakland club refused it.

A message states that Owen Carroll, star pitcher of Holy Cross college and rated as the best college pitcher of the year, has signed a contract to play with the Detroit Americans.

Fans of St. Paul have started a movement to raise a fund to be presented to the players of the American association team if the pennant is landed for St. Paul this year.

Pitcher Fred Reynolds, with Ionla in the Central league last year and sold to Decatur in the Three-I, which released him, is to get back in his old territory with Grand Rapids.

OLD-TIME ATHLETICS IN CONFAB

Before a recent game between the Yankees and Athletics at the Yankee stadium Dan Murphy, Connie Mack's right-hand man, Joe Bush Yankee pitcher, Chief Bender, former Athletic pitcher and Bob Shawkey, Yankee twirler, held an interesting confab of old times.

Park Rapids, Minn., Aug. 31.—The third bait casting tournament of the Ten Thousand Lakes Anglers association, will be held here Sept. 2. Contestants from 12 clubs in this section will compete for 16 prizes and a bronze medal offered by local business firms. A silver cup will be offered by the Walker Rod and Gun club as a trophy for the winning team in a shoot by three men teams. Following the tournament, the association members will hold the annual meeting and elect officers.

New Swim Record Set

London, Aug. 31.—The Swedish swimmer, Arne Borg, has created a new world's record for 880 yards, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Gothenburg. He covered the distance in 11 minutes 8 1/2 seconds, bettering Norman Ross' record of 11 minutes 24 1-5 seconds.

ILLINOIS BOXING CARD STOPPED WHEN GATE RECEIPTS ARE MISSED

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Boxing in Illinois received another black eye last night when the tournament at Hawthorne was stopped because someone had slipped away with the gate receipts, leaving nothing to pay the principals.

All through the underworld today the statement was made that "Frenchy" Mader, former union labor czar, and recent defendant in a murder case, had "gone south" with the $6,600 gate receipts, together with a handsome sum realized from the beer running concession at Hawthorne during the recent race meeting. It is intimated that he is well on his way to Mexico. There is hanging over him a penitentiary sentence for extortion and Chicago had become too hot for him.

Harry D. Koffman, the ostensible promoter of last night's boxing tournament, also is missing today. It was discovered today that he recently sold his motion picture theatre. He and Mader were intimate friends and if they departed together, they have a lead of 24 hours over the authorities. Mader's friends say he will not again be seen in Chicago unless he is caught and brought back.

The young Frenchman who is only 19, defeated Hunter in straight sets, 6-4, 6-1.

The other Kinsey, Robert, meets Harvey Shodgrass in an all-California battle in the upper bracket.
